DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Verdura, et al. The cited patent shows in figures 12-15, a body including an interface for at least partial insertion into the bodily tissue at a point of insertion; the interface being the portion of the body that remains in contact with the bodily tissue adjacent the point of insertion while the device remains inserted in the bodily tissue; the interface having a exterior surface including texture thereon.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by McFarlane, or Feller, Jr., et al. The cited patents disclose a stent portion; the stent portion capable of receiving a needle; the stent portion including an introducer and a cannula through which the needle extends, the introducer including a proximal portion and a distal portion; the introducer including texture on the proximal portion.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-8 and 10-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Verdura, et al., in view of Feller, Jr., et al., McFarlane, Muetterties, et al., and Steen, et al. The Verdura, et al., Patent shows in figures 12-15, a body including an interface for at least partial insertion into the bodily tissue at a point of insertion; the interface being the portion of the body that remains in contact with the bodily tissue adjacent the point of insertion while the device remains inserted in the bodily tissue; the interface having a exterior surface including texture thereon. Additionally, the patent discloses a stent portion; the stent portion capable of receiving other surgical instruments; the stent portion including an introducer and a cannula, the introducer including a proximal portion and a distal portion; the introducer including texture on the proximal portion. The applicant has included in the dependent claims of this application a series of conventional enhancements well known in the art. The Feller, Jr., et al., McFarlane, Muetterties, et al., and Steen, et al., Patents convincingly demonstrate the conventionality of the various types of textures used in surgical instruments and their application in the different external locations of stents or intravascular devices. Based on the observations mentioned above, it would not be unreasonable to suggest that, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, the enhancements disclosed in the dependent claims are obvious design alternatives.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
